All Education Employees Deserve at least $15 per Hour!

Education support professionals (ESPs) keep students safe and healthy as well as school buildings and equipment functioning. As committed and caring members of a school community, they impact the lives of students every day.

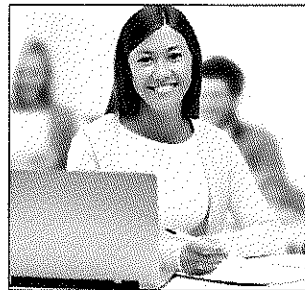

Yet, many of our ESPs are woefully underpaid, barely able to afford to live in the communities in which they serve. In many parts of our state, support professionals work two or even three jobs to feed and support their families. In fact, some earn so little that they qualify for government assistance.

A first class education system for our state demands dedicated educational support professionals who are paid at least $15 hour.

JOIN US in the fight to make that happen.
